If you submit your story to us it may be posted, in whole or in part, on the ARISE Coalition website or the PIE website, or it may be incorporated into advocacy materials. In all cases, any and all names will be removed, and your email address will not be shared. Sharing your story with us is for the sole purpose of informing the policy debate with real stories regarding special education services in New York City. Sharing your story is not a request for legal advice or any assistance of any kind. If you are interested in seeking assistance, you may contact a number of our ARISE Coalition members who do provide assistance and representation in school-related matters. Each member organization has its own guidelines, so it's best if you reach out to them by phone, or check their websites for criteria.
